Certificates were distributed to tribal women who completed a free tailoring program at Gundri village in Kadambur Hills on Sunday.

Organised by the Tribal Rural Environmental and Education People Charitable Trust, the six-month tailoring programme was conducted from June 2024 to January 30, 2025. Local women participated in the training, which covered embroidery, jewellery making, and salwar designing.

Senthil Kumar, Sub-Inspector, Kadambur Police Station, distributed the certificates. Social activists Navshad and Satheesh, wildlife photographer Jothi Velumani, tailoring instructor Savitha, Balaji, Trust Secretary Chitra, and Coordinator Thamaraiselvan were also present.

Additionally, tribal community members and schoolchildren from the village prepared and showcased various traditional dishes, including millet-based foods, during the event.
